New italian restaurant in windsor co

Erin Udell | Coloradoan New Italian eats has joined Windsor's dining scene with the opening of a new location of the Cacciatore at Heller's Kitchen. The Italian restaurant, which opened its first location in Fort Collins' Jessup Farm artisan village in 2017, is the second tenant to open its doors in the recently renovated Windsor Mill, 301 Main St. Although it looks like the Jessup Farm location, the new Windsor restaurant is three times larger and takes reservations, according to a Coloradoan report last month. Its first working day was Friday. Cacciatore at Heller's Kitchen is open in Windsor from 4 to 9 p.m. Mondays from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesdays through Thursdays from 11 a.m. to 22:00 Fridays and Saturdays, and 10:00 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sundays. Cheers: Here's how Colorado breweries did at the Great American Beer Festival Restaurant serves dinner daily and serves lunch Tuesday through Sundays. From 10am to 4pm Sundays it will serve brunch with bottomless mimosas and bloody marys, according to its website. Cacciatore at Heller's Kitchen joins windsor mill tavern, which opened late last month as the first Windsor Mill tenant. A brewery may eventually occupy the last first floor restaurant space in The Mill. The second floor of the building consists of 4,400 feet of office space. The Mill, which dates back to 1899, has a long and unfortunate history on Windsor's Main Street. After serving as a flour mill and later a feed store for decades, it was torn apart by the city's 2008 tornado. Larimer County restaurant inspections: Chipotle and Windsor Academy rated outstanding The historic structure was purchased by Fort Collins' Blue Ocean Enterprises in 2016. A year later - in the midst of a thorough restoration - a deliberately set fire ravaged the mill. Although the fire set the project back, it is finally complete, with Blue Ocean holding as much as the building's original interior and exterior features as possible.
